

THE PHILANTHROPIST,
PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY THE ANTI-SLAVERY SOCIETY,
No. 15, between 4th & 5th, East side,
CINCINNATI, OHIO.

JAMES DOLLY, Publishing Agent.
DOLLY'S OFFICE, 15, between 4th & 5th, East side, Cincinnati, Ohio.
DOLLY'S OFFICE, 15, between 4th & 5th, East side, Cincinnati, Ohio.
DOLLY'S OFFICE, 15, between 4th & 5th, East side, Cincinnati, Ohio.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.
For the first square of 16 lines, one insertion, $0.50
For each additional insertion, 0.08
For each additional insertion, 0.08
For each additional insertion, 0.08

LETTER FROM JOHN Q. ADAMS TO THE CIVILIZATION OF THE UNITED STATES.

WASHINGTON, April 1850.
Dear Sir,
I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 14th inst.

With regard to the date of the publication, I have the honor to inform you that the first number of the Philanthropist will be published on the 1st of May.

With regard to the date of the publication, I have the honor to inform you that the first number of the Philanthropist will be published on the 1st of May.

With regard to the date of the publication, I have the honor to inform you that the first number of the Philanthropist will be published on the 1st of May.

With regard to the date of the publication, I have the honor to inform you that the first number of the Philanthropist will be published on the 1st of May.

With regard to the date of the publication, I have the honor to inform you that the first number of the Philanthropist will be published on the 1st of May.

With regard to the date of the publication, I have the honor to inform you that the first number of the Philanthropist will be published on the 1st of May.

With regard to the date of the publication, I have the honor to inform you that the first number of the Philanthropist will be published on the 1st of May.

With regard to the date of the publication, I have the honor to inform you that the first number of the Philanthropist will be published on the 1st of May.

With regard to the date of the publication, I have the honor to inform you that the first number of the Philanthropist will be published on the 1st of May.

With regard to the date of the publication, I have the honor to inform you that the first number of the Philanthropist will be published on the 1st of May.

With regard to the date of the publication, I have the honor to inform you that the first number of the Philanthropist will be published on the 1st of May.

With regard to the date of the publication, I have the honor to inform you that the first number of the Philanthropist will be published on the 1st of May.

The obvious purpose of this resolution is to take into consideration the petition of the citizens of the District of Columbia, who have petitioned for the abolition of slavery in that District.

This resolution is in itself entirely correct, and a southern committee would be well advised to accept it. It is a resolution which Congress has no right to refuse to consider.

It is not the purpose of this resolution to take into consideration the petition of the citizens of the District of Columbia, who have petitioned for the abolition of slavery in that District.

It is not the purpose of this resolution to take into consideration the petition of the citizens of the District of Columbia, who have petitioned for the abolition of slavery in that District.

It is not the purpose of this resolution to take into consideration the petition of the citizens of the District of Columbia, who have petitioned for the abolition of slavery in that District.

It is not the purpose of this resolution to take into consideration the petition of the citizens of the District of Columbia, who have petitioned for the abolition of slavery in that District.

It is not the purpose of this resolution to take into consideration the petition of the citizens of the District of Columbia, who have petitioned for the abolition of slavery in that District.

It is not the purpose of this resolution to take into consideration the petition of the citizens of the District of Columbia, who have petitioned for the abolition of slavery in that District.

of this Conference, is just as true as the House of Representatives. It is a resolution which Congress has no right to refuse to consider.

It is not the purpose of this resolution to take into consideration the petition of the citizens of the District of Columbia, who have petitioned for the abolition of slavery in that District.

It is not the purpose of this resolution to take into consideration the petition of the citizens of the District of Columbia, who have petitioned for the abolition of slavery in that District.

It is not the purpose of this resolution to take into consideration the petition of the citizens of the District of Columbia, who have petitioned for the abolition of slavery in that District.

It is not the purpose of this resolution to take into consideration the petition of the citizens of the District of Columbia, who have petitioned for the abolition of slavery in that District.

It is not the purpose of this resolution to take into consideration the petition of the citizens of the District of Columbia, who have petitioned for the abolition of slavery in that District.

It is not the purpose of this resolution to take into consideration the petition of the citizens of the District of Columbia, who have petitioned for the abolition of slavery in that District.

It is not the purpose of this resolution to take into consideration the petition of the citizens of the District of Columbia, who have petitioned for the abolition of slavery in that District.

less may be, but it is not the practice of the House of Representatives. It is a resolution which Congress has no right to refuse to consider.

It is not the purpose of this resolution to take into consideration the petition of the citizens of the District of Columbia, who have petitioned for the abolition of slavery in that District.

It is not the purpose of this resolution to take into consideration the petition of the citizens of the District of Columbia, who have petitioned for the abolition of slavery in that District.

It is not the purpose of this resolution to take into consideration the petition of the citizens of the District of Columbia, who have petitioned for the abolition of slavery in that District.

It is not the purpose of this resolution to take into consideration the petition of the citizens of the District of Columbia, who have petitioned for the abolition of slavery in that District.

It is not the purpose of this resolution to take into consideration the petition of the citizens of the District of Columbia, who have petitioned for the abolition of slavery in that District.

It is not the purpose of this resolution to take into consideration the petition of the citizens of the District of Columbia, who have petitioned for the abolition of slavery in that District.

It is not the purpose of this resolution to take into consideration the petition of the citizens of the District of Columbia, who have petitioned for the abolition of slavery in that District.

what the argument calls a petition or reconnoissance of the citizens of York, Pennsylvania, to the act of the President in removing the petitioners, presented by the House of Representatives.

It is not the purpose of this resolution to take into consideration the petition of the citizens of the District of Columbia, who have petitioned for the abolition of slavery in that District.

It is not the purpose of this resolution to take into consideration the petition of the citizens of the District of Columbia, who have petitioned for the abolition of slavery in that District.

It is not the purpose of this resolution to take into consideration the petition of the citizens of the District of Columbia, who have petitioned for the abolition of slavery in that District.

It is not the purpose of this resolution to take into consideration the petition of the citizens of the District of Columbia, who have petitioned for the abolition of slavery in that District.

It is not the purpose of this resolution to take into consideration the petition of the citizens of the District of Columbia, who have petitioned for the abolition of slavery in that District.

It is not the purpose of this resolution to take into consideration the petition of the citizens of the District of Columbia, who have petitioned for the abolition of slavery in that District.

It is not the purpose of this resolution to take into consideration the petition of the citizens of the District of Columbia, who have petitioned for the abolition of slavery in that District.

on the table, because the formal application of that Republic to be annexed to the United States had been withdrawn, but still more because the rule of the House, which forbade the introduction of resolutions on the table, was not in force.

It is not the purpose of this resolution to take into consideration the petition of the citizens of the District of Columbia, who have petitioned for the abolition of slavery in that District.

It is not the purpose of this resolution to take into consideration the petition of the citizens of the District of Columbia, who have petitioned for the abolition of slavery in that District.

It is not the purpose of this resolution to take into consideration the petition of the citizens of the District of Columbia, who have petitioned for the abolition of slavery in that District.

It is not the purpose of this resolution to take into consideration the petition of the citizens of the District of Columbia, who have petitioned for the abolition of slavery in that District.

It is not the purpose of this resolution to take into consideration the petition of the citizens of the District of Columbia, who have petitioned for the abolition of slavery in that District.

It is not the purpose of this resolution to take into consideration the petition of the citizens of the District of Columbia, who have petitioned for the abolition of slavery in that District.

It is not the purpose of this resolution to take into consideration the petition of the citizens of the District of Columbia, who have petitioned for the abolition of slavery in that District.

be deemed of such

